EFFECTIVE RESEARCHING OF CONTRACTORS (SERVICE VALIDATION)

The leading reason for most successful contract-related home projects is that residents do thorough enough research or service validations on contractors; the leading reason for most unsuccessful contract-related home projects is that residents do not do thorough enough research or service validations on contractors.

The Line Up

Therefore, when it comes to the home project you have in mind for which you anticipate authorizing contractor assistance, one of first things it is strongly recommended for you to do, is thoroughly research "contractors." That is, of course, pluralized since time and again it has been proven that your chances for getting the sort of service you need, in the reasonable price range you need, are much greater when you first interview at least five (5) contractors who are similarly skilled towards the sort of project you have in mind.

Initial Research

The "initial research" entails asking around about the best contractors for the sort of project you need accomplished. Sources in this regard are

1. word-of-mouth; 2. internet search engines; 3. contractors themselves.

What you are looking for are contractors who have great reputations in our neighborhood for delivering on the nature of work we have available. You may not want to just go along with what others say. You are a lot safer dealing with contractors who have worked regularly around your community and have rapport with neighbors.

But what if, to your knowledge, contractors wanting to do work on your property are not well known to you for doing work you have in mind? Since you know that it can be detrimental for us to hire contractors we scarcely know anything about, you may want to have an application process for them. HGRBS (sponsor of this free Service Booklet) has also a free application you can download and print copies of. It is known as the "Service Validation Form." But for the sake of simplicity, it is normally referred to as the application. Subsequently, when the phrase the application is used in this booklet, it refers to the "Service Validation Form."

Effective Use of the Application

It is recommended, especially for contractors unknown for doing excellent work in our community, to fill out the application. This also applies to contractors you found online. But it can be wise to give them advance notice that when they visit, it would only be for picking up the application. It may not be a good idea to give any impression that you are inviting them over to have them look over what you have available. You can treat this as only an invitation to pick up the application – not for consideration to start work. They may not be as honest and proficient as they want to believe they are.

1. *When contractors you have invited over arrive, it would be great to have the application in a convenient place for us to hand to them. Explain that it is a home policy for checking out contractors before considering for hire.
2. *Home is a social business operation. Through incorporating this application process as part your house rules, you now have in place a vital safeguard most other businesses use.
3. *After handing the application to contractors – along with the instruction sheet which shows them how to fill it out, you can also request references. For more details on the use of this unique residential work application process for contractors, there is a link provided on this page.

Helpful Key Information In Louisiana Resident-Contractor Relations

Louisiana Secretary of State

All corporations (LLC's, diversified partnerships included) are required to be registered with the Louisiana Secretary of State. Please Validate i.e. use to see if they are registered.

Louisiana State Contractor Search

Notice: Home improvement contractors (of a few other classifications) are required to be aptly registered with the Louisiana State Licensing Board for Contractors [State of Louisiana Contractors Licensing Law and Rules and Regulations; Title 37, LRS, Chap. 24, Contractors; §2175.2; Effective August 1, 2020 [\[Ref.\]](#)]

There are apparent issues, especially, during and after emergency storm situations where contractors pretend to be legitimate by flashing false, outdated, illegal, or otherwise invalid contractors' credentials. Since many residents are not aware of what proper credentials look like, they apparently take it for granted that such dishonest people are legitimate. Please, for this moment, STOP, LOOK, & LISTEN:

Many residents are scandalized because they neglect to do these three most important things.

Instead of just reacting to your emergency, please, understand that you are not pulling out of this overnight. Please, do not expect to. It will take a while. Instead, it is hoped you will exercise your option to hand the contractor the "Service Validation Form [the application]," follow all applicable instructions of this tutorial, have screening document returned to you 100% complete, then validate everything (including his/her legitimacy to even touch your property). A major part of the system is for you to check with Louisiana State Licensing Board for Contractors:

Please Validate

*Also, in the space of your "Service Validation Form" which reads:

"Contractor's License/Registration#" please, expect the contractor to enter the Registration # issued to him/her by the "Louisiana State Licensing Board for Contractors." Be certain it is there when the application is returned. If not, please, politely ask the contractor to enter that respective registration number in the space provided.

Warnings About False Claims Some Contractors Make Belonging To A Builder's Association

When contractor says he/she is a member of Home Builders Association, Master Builders Association, or any other notable trades operation, please, ask to see valid and current ID to that effect. If no related ID, it is not advisable to listen for explanations since any certification or ID which increases the contractor's chances for landing the job, is like money or a very valuable ticket. Contractors do not "forget" them. If the contractor claims "loss," here are some investigative things you can do:

- a. ask which "association" office he/she is from.
- b. write it down and ask for the number while you are at it.
- c. ask for a contact name at that office (write it down clearly).
- d. call until you get someone (An old trick is to enter the number exactly as given in the browser of your favorite search engine. Normally, you are able to trace it to its actual point or area of origination. You can also try "reverse lookup").

Nevertheless, even if a contractor checks out with whatever that trades organization may be, it is not recommended that you take that as all the proof you need of credibility. A thorough "service validation" (screening process) is required, irrespective (that goes for electricians and plumbers, too. They are also contractors if they are not working for someone else.)

There are scandalous contractors who also have verifiable trades affiliations, credentials, and licenses. This is the reason it is strongly advised that you do a thorough reputation check (service validation), regardless. All bases must be covered. Everything must check out 100%.

Note: It is not advisable to waste time trying to look any farther if any contractor says he/she is a member of any specific trades organization but is not listed there. *Plus, always demand documentation (whether or not the contractor appears on membership roster). It must be current. Check it out personally or delegate. *Also, please, do not go by a contractor's membership, alone. Everything is recommended to be checked out and cleared. If not validated/verified, it is recommended, in such case, that you go no farther with this person. It normally means trouble on the horizon. Please, take that literally.

*Results you get from following the instructions of this Service Booklet regarding hiring are suggested to be most acceptable when contractor checks out 100% favorable. No gaps. Gaps in a contractor's information often indicate trouble ahead. If contractor doesn't check out 100%, it is recommended that you search for more reliable candidates using same procedure. Sometimes best candidates are just around the bend. Please, find them!

EFFECTIVE MEANS FOR FILING COMPLAINTS WITH RELATED GOVERNMENT OFFICES

There are an untold number of private home residents who are caught by surprise (largely due to neglecting thorough “service validations” on contractors) learning that the contractor they hired was not reliable. It could be for any number of reasons, from doing shoddy work to no work at all. Also, in most of these cases, residents did the forbidden: They gave the contractor money in advance. The amount given is not as significant as the fact that it was not invested wisely. But before you file your complaint with the proper Louisiana authorities, please, note this:

Note: Formal resident etiquette which is universally accepted in contractor-related disputes is for you to first put forth a personal, documented effort to resolve differences before actually filing a complaint with the government. One reason is that many complaints can be resolved when you diplomatically approach contractors directly with a personal complaint letter. Normally, it’s used as both a serious warning for probable legal action, and as documentation for the government, that, just in case the contractor is uncooperative, you have written evidence to the effect you tried. This adds more leverage to your complaint when you really have to file it. Please, get your attorney’s advice on the feasibility of sending the contractor/contract firm the following Complaint Letter:

Optional Format for Complaint Letter to Business (Optional first move)

If after a period of seven (7) consecutive business days (unless your state recommends more time before filing your complaint), the contractor does not respond consistent with your request(s) for resolving your differences, you may then want to file your complaint without further hesitation. Your decision.
