

Oregon Homeowner's Fast Track to Best Contractors!

This written tutorial is sponsored in association with HGRBS as a private service contribution to the amazing efforts of Oregon private home decision makers towards locating, selecting, and hiring the best contractors for the best results in matters of home maintenance and improvement.

It all begins with making the right decisions. We are better prepared to make the right decisions when we have all the right information about the people we hope to entrust our precious home projects to. This is about doing all the right things to that effect and more!

"Better Decisions, Better Results"

[The corporation sponsoring this tutorial considers the private home setting as a "natural social business operation" which's focus is primarily towards continually maintaining and improving our comforts and conveniences therein].

EFFECTIVE RESEARCHING OF CONTRACTORS (SERVICE VALIDATION)

The leading reason for most successful contract-related home projects is that residents do thorough enough research or service validations on contractors; the leading reason for most unsuccessful contract-related home projects is that residents do not do thorough enough research or service validations on contractors.

The Line Up

Therefore, when it comes to the home project you have in mind for which you anticipate authorizing contractor assistance, one of first things it is strongly recommended for you to do, is thoroughly research "contractors." That is, of course, pluralized since time and again it has been proven that your chances for getting the sort of service you need, in the reasonable price range you need, are much greater when you first interview at least five (5) contractors who are similarly skilled towards the sort of project you have in mind.

Initial Research

The "initial research" entails asking around about the best contractors for the sort of project you need accomplished. Sources in this regard are

1. word-of-mouth; 2. internet search engines; 3. contractors themselves.

What you are looking for are contractors who have great reputations in our neighborhood for delivering on the nature of work we have available. You may not want to just go along with what others say. You are a lot safer dealing with contractors who have worked regularly around your community and have rapport with neighbors.

But what if, to your knowledge, contractors wanting to do work on your property are not well known to you for doing work you have in mind? Since you know that it can be detrimental for us to hire contractors we scarcely know anything about, you may want to have an application process for them. HGRBS (sponsor of this free Service Booklet) has also a free application you can download and print copies of. It is known as the "Service Validation Form." But for the sake of simplicity, it is normally referred to as the application. Subsequently, when the phrase the application is used in this booklet, it refers to the "Service Validation Form."

Effective Use of The Application

It is recommended, especially for contractors unknown for doing excellent work in our community, to fill out the application. This also applies to contractors you found online. But it can be wise to give them advance notice that when they visit, it would only be for picking up the application. It may not be a good idea to give any impression that you are inviting them over to have them look over what you have available. You can treat this as only an invitation to pick up the application – not for consideration to start work. They may not be as honest and proficient as they want to believe they are.

*When contractors you have invited over arrive, it would be great to have the application in a convenient place for us to hand to them. Explain that it is a home policy for checking out contractors before considering for hire.

*Home is a social business operation. Through incorporating this application process as part your house rules, you now have in place a vital safeguard most other businesses use.

*After handing the application to contractors – along with the instruction sheet which shows them how to fill it out, you can also request references. For more details on the use of this unique residential work application process for contractors, there is a link provided on this page.

Note: All contractors [whether corporation or not) are required to be registered with the "Oregon Construction Contractor's Board." Although some contractors may need special licensing and certification, ALL must be registered with "Oregon Contractor's Construction Board." Also if there are contractors you have made arrangement with scheduled to do work or actually on the property working, please check with the CCB as well. They may be neither registered, licensed, or certified by the state of Oregon to do the nature of work they are hired for.

Warnings About False Claims Some Contractors Make Belonging To A Builder's Association

When contractor says he/she is a member of Home Builders Association, Master Builders Association, or any other notable trades operation, please, ask to see valid and current ID to that effect. If no related ID, it is not advisable to listen for explanations since any certification or ID which increases the contractor's chances for landing the job, is like money or a very valuable ticket. Contractors do not "forget" them. If the contractor claims "loss," here are some investigative things you can do:

1. ask which "association" office he/she is from.
2. write it down and ask for the number while you are at it.
3. ask for a contact name at that office (write it down clearly).
4. call until you get someone (An old trick is to enter the number exactly as given in the browser of your favorite search engine. Normally, you are able to trace it to its actual point or area of origination. You can also try "reverse lookup").

Nevertheless, even if a contractor checks out with whatever that trades organization may be, it is not recommended that you take that as all the proof you need of credibility. A thorough “service validation” (screening process) is required, irrespective (that goes for electricians and plumbers, too. They are also contractors if they are not working for someone else.)

*It is not advisable to waste time trying to look any farther if any contractor says he/she is a member of any specific trades organization but is not listed there. Always demand documentation (whether or not the contractor appears on membership roster). It must be current. Check it out personally or delegate. You may not want to go by a contractor’s membership, alone. Everything is recommended to be checked out and cleared. If not validated/verified, it is recommended, in such case, that you go no farther with this person. It normally means trouble on the horizon. Please, take that literally.

*Results you get from following the instructions of this Service Booklet regarding hiring are suggested to be most acceptable when contractor checks out 100% favorable. No gaps. Gaps in a contractor’s information often indicate trouble ahead. If contractor doesn’t check out 100%, it is recommended that you search for more reliable candidates using same procedure. Sometimes best candidates are just around the bend. Please, find them!

EFFECTIVE MEANS FOR FILING COMPLAINTS WITH RELATED GOVERNMENT OFFICES

There are an untold number of private home residents who are caught by surprise (largely due to neglecting thorough “service validations” on contractors) learning that the contractor they hired was not reliable. It could be for any number of reasons, from doing shoddy work to no work at all. Also, in most of these cases, residents did the forbidden: They gave the contractor money in advance. The amount given is not as significant as the fact that it was not invested wisely.

Formal resident etiquette which is universally accepted is for you to first put forth a personal, documented effort to resolve differences before actually filing a complaint with the government. One reason is that many complaints can be resolved when you approach contractors directly with a personal complaint letter.

Complaint Standards As Per Oregon State Department of Justice, Consumer Protection

 ORS 701.133 requires that you give your contractor a notice of your intent to file a complaint 30 days before filing it with the CCB (Construction Contractors Board). This notice must be mailed by certified mail through the US Postal Service.*

Recommended Formality for “Pre-complaint Notice” to Contractor (as per “Oregon Construction Contractors Board)

Special Note: The above section of the Oregon Revised Statute “Sec. ORS 701.133” is notable for referring to primarily “licensed contractors” who are legally licensed with/by the “Oregon Construction Contractors Board” (Ref.).

This indicates that if a contractor who has wronged you is otherwise “illegitimate” (and, you have checked the registry for the CCB and personally verified the contractor’s “illegitimacy”), since the CCB expresses a preference for considering consumer complaints involving Oregon’s “licensed contractors” (contractors licensed with CCB), you may want to quickly take this matter about the illegitimate contractor who wronged you to the “Oregon Department of Justice, Consumer Protection,” instead.

About Filing Consumer Complaint Form

If after the 30-day written notification you sent to the contractor goes unanswered, consistent with Oregon Revised Statute “Sec. ORS 701.133,” you may want to file your official consumer complaint with the “Oregon Department of Justice, Consumer Protection.” Remember this mainly refers to contractors who are legally licensed with/by the “Oregon Construction Contractors Board.”

*If on the other hand, you find that the contractor is illegally operating in the state of Oregon, as before, you may want to file your complaint with the “Oregon Department of Justice, Consumer Protection,” IMMEDIATELY.

ADDITIONAL INFO FOR RESIDENTS MAKING STRATEGIC CHOICES

Albeit that there are other crucial concerns of the private home settings, our primary concern is to inspire resident efforts towards:

- 1. Ensuring that you are financially sound enough to authorize the nature of home maintenance or improvement projects you have in mind.*
- 2. Ensuring that you are as familiar as possible about how your nature of home projects are correctly done before calling in trades people to successfully deliver.*
- 3. Ensuring that you have adequate protocol or a working system for scouting, selecting, declining, hiring, firing, and/or settling with individual contractors and/or contract firms.*
- 4. Knowing which remedial actions you can take in the event you feel/are threatened by dishonest contractors.*
- 5. Knowing which remedial actions you can take in case you feel/are defrauded by dishonest contractors.*
- 6. Ensuring that individual contractors/contract firms are legally cleared and verified (5 favorable customer references, included) to expeditiously perform your specific types of home projects in the state of Oregon.*
